

Today we are going to lay out the hypocrisy and many lies of Jennifer D'Alessandro of Lockport NY. Particularly as it pertains to her falsely accusing others of contacting employers or threatening to contact employers or posting private information when that is what she, Jennifer has actually done. Note that Jennifer cannot provide any factual evidence of anything her stalking targets have actually done to her that would justify her stalking and threats towards them.

First we have a tweet from Jennifer D'Alessandro of Lockport NY using her @MaisyCrayCray Twitter account. (Attachment A) This is proof it is Jennifer's account as she posted information about her vacations and her grandson from this account. Cray Cray is an apt description of this woman as you will soon see.

Jen then states on this account that she has never called an employer or threatened to call an employer. (Attachment B)

I guess she forgot about all the times she threatened to call peoples employers or their husband's employers or where she incited her friends to contact the neighbors of people she didn't like and stated that she herself had contacted the neighbors of her stalking targets. These are people Jen outed after illegally gaining administrative access to a blog and downloading IPs and email addresses and sharing them with her friends so they could stalk and harass people. We'll put up a separate post showing Jen also lied about the password laying about publicly and how she tries to justify her clearly illegal and immoral actions.

(Attachment C) was obtained from an FOIA to the Los Angeles Police Department who conducted an investigation into the intrusion into the IW blog in question. As part of that investigation, law enforcement subpoenaed Jennifer D'Alessandro's ISP who confirmed her IP address at that time was 72.231.207.200. We'll come back to that IP again later as it will be important. (Attachment C) also includes a note from the police write up stating they issued the subpoena and the results. Unlike Jennifer who makes false unsubstantiated allegations, others can verify the content of this post and the results of the investigation by simply contacting the LAPD and filing an FOIA report pursuant to the California Public Records Act by writing to the Los Angeles Police Public Records Dept. at PO Box 30158 Los Angeles CA 90030 (213) 978-2100 and asking for the report on DR # 120805055 incident report date of 1/26/2012. Again, unlike Jennifer, we back up our statements with provable facts.

	Case # 201200029399 created By: LGUAG - on: 8/7/2012 8:16:03 AM
	Received a case referral from the LAPD regarding an intrusion case which was reported to them by [REDACTED] regarding unauthorized access to her blog 'imperfectwomen.com'. LAPD Detective Merri Dallas had sent out subpoenas related to an IP which accessed the blog using the administrative username and password. The return on the IP was to 4373 Lake Ave Lockport NY in the name of [REDACTED] D'Alessandro. I

Not only did the subpoena return an IP that went directly to Jen's address, but Jen lied about altering content on the blog as seen here on (Attachment D) on a post she made to felon Thomas Retzlaff's blog which she continues to use as a platform to air her petty grievances and post outrageous lies about people she does not like.

My ONLY rely to you Capt:

- I was never on probation. Not for a second. I received an ACD which is not probation. It's just a procedural thing in my town. STANDARD and it's 100% a dismissal. NO PROBATION.

- I changed no content of that blog. Changed it to be more flattering about myself? That's very funny. I have no idea what you're talking about. Your statement is completely untrue.

Jen also lied to the police about altering content o the blog as seen here in (Attachment E). Jen ultimately admitted to the illicit access for only a brief time, but the blog administrative logs showed she spent well over 90 hours copying and downloading information and altering content. The police specifically noted that she lied about this fact on this report (Attachment E)

8. Narrative Description (to be typed in) called Detective Dallas and she stated that the suspect in our area was a Jennifer D'Alessandro of that address: see file for the LAPD report. I spoke with Jennifer and she admitted to using the username and password to access the administrative section of the blog but was in that area for just a few minutes and did not change any data. This was not accurate based on the network data this writer received from the blog. The IP associated with D'Alessandro was in the blog for several hours and data within that had been altered. Investigation continuing.

(Attachment F) is an actual example from the blog administrative log of Jen altering content on the blog. Make note of the IP 72.231.207.200 as that ties her directly to specific threats she made against peoples employers on the RWA blog.

(Attachment G) shows the very same IP showing up on the comments on the RWA blog. This information was turned over by the RWA blog administrator Lisa Knight, who was running StatCounter on the blog and so was able to track IPs and emails associated to each comment. This and the following comments (Attachments) were made by Jennifer D'Alessandro. 100% verified.

I vote that we call the employer of any sheeple that tweets during work hours.

But apparently as seen in (Attachment H) Jen thinks it is only OK to call employers if they're employers of people you don't like. Jen got angry that someone called the employer (San Jose Mercury News) of one of her friends (Andrea Luck) who also illegally accessed the admin area of that blog DURING WORKING HOURS ON COMPANY EQUIPMENT USING THE PASSWORD JENNIFER GAVE HER. Andrea Luck was subsequently fired from her job because she did something illegal and improper on company time using company equipment and it's partly Jen's fault for giving Andrea access credentials she was not entitled to. Interesting that Jen and Andrea place the blame everywhere except on themselves where it belongs. Jen continues to lie and say Andrea got fired for tweeting unflattering content about Kate Gosselin. That's not why she got fired. She got fired because she used company equipment on company time for an illegal activity and for harassment of private citizens.

(Attachment L) Here is Jen talking about contacting more employers and inciting her friends to do the same. Again don't forget Jen's earlier lie that she never threatened to call people's employers. Her justification is that she believes the people she targets have done the same. Never mind that she can never provide proof to back up her allegations. Jen continues to insist that CJ, one of her frequent harassment targets, contacts employers. Jen posts tweets supposedly proving CJ does this while leaving out the important and PROVABLE fact that CJ contacted the employer via Twitter to inform them that one of their employees was being impersonated on Twitter by one of Jen's friends. CJ did not contact an employer to get the man fired, she contacted them to let them know that one of Jen's friends was trying to get an employee of theirs fired by posting inflammatory content under a Twitter account they created in his name to impersonate the relative of another woman Jen and her friends constantly attacked online.

Is it time to start outing their workplaces? They didn't mind doing that to Kristi. Perhaps it's time....perhaps.

CJ (Carolyn Pillutla) one of Jens favorite stalking targets is someone that Jen always accuses of contacting other peoples employers to get them fired. Never mind that Jen has no actual proof of this except tweets she takes out of context to make up stories that are not true (which we've already addressed once here). One of Jen's favorite lies is telling others that CJ got someone named Kristie e (Kristine Jensen) fired as seen in (Attachment N). The #FACT is CJ never called or contacted Kristie's workplace with any sort of complaint. CJ made one tweet where she tweeted to the dealership that Kirstie worked for "is this thing on" THAT's IT, nothing more. That tweet was subsequently ignored as CJ was blocked by Kristie's employer after Jennifer D'Alessandro flooded the dealerships Twitter stream with comments and they blocked everyone in the discussion thread. CJ did not get Kirstie fired. Kristie by Jen's own admission was fired 6 WHOLE MONTHS later, which means CJ had nothing to do with it. Maybe Kristie and Jen should start blaming Kristie for being fired. You know, accountability for your own actions.

CJ got Kristie fired even though Kristie has been on private for MONTHS at Twitter. PissPie got her husband to call Snark's work because she ALLUDED to something on Twitter. Snark didn't even use a name or screen name. After all this, I am sure they will both agree to love Kate.

(Attachment O) is an example of Jen threatening to give out private information on another woman who she outed via her illegal access of the IW admin area. Wow such language for a supposed "Christian" keeping it real for Jesus. Not to mention that Jen actually emailed the woman in question to toy with her and threaten to out her then say she wouldn't out her and then actually did. The result being that Jen's friends then began to attack the woman, her husband and her minor child online including calling the husband's work.

The neighbors of the [[REDACTED]] family will soon be receiving their postcards warning them about the crazy Kate Gosselin fan that lives in their neighborhood. Jen whines that all those times she threatened other people's jobs happened 3+ years ago so why can't everyone forget about it. Well maybe that's because she STILL DOES IT. And she does it to people who have never done anything to her and are not part of this insanity, all because she and her friends have faildoxed someone. But that doesn't matter to Jen. She'll still threaten some woman's job and accuse her of committing some unnamed crime. This (Attachment X) was posted in the middle of last year in 2015. Proof that Jen is unable to stop her stalking ways as she continues to try to threaten other people's employment even when they have never done anything to her. If Jen was Pinocchio her nose would be 100+ miles long by now due to all of her lies.
